

Thursday, September 2, 2010

J.B. Kenehan buys Conley Printing

The Business Journal of Milwaukee

J.B. Kenehan LLC, a pre-press, printing and finishing technology provider in Waukesha, has acquired Conley Printing of Beaver Dam for an undisclosed amount.

J.B. Kenehan said in a press release Thursday that the two companies have worked together for the past six years utilizing each other's manufacturing capabilities and technical experience. The combination of the two companies allows for further growth in the industry and provides a variety of services as well as a pool of talent in printing, J.B. Kenehan said.

Conley is a heatset and non-heatset web printer specializing in standard and tabloid sized publications, inserts and catalogs. Its 172,000-square-foot facility houses three web presses, saddle stitching, in-line and offline mailing, polybagging, fulfillment and other operations.

J.B. Kenehan is a sheetfed and web printer with an 80,000-square-foot plant in Waukesha.

All contents of this site © American City Business Journals Inc. All rights reserved.